PREFACE

Poor spelling has been justly termed the reproach of American schools, and the attention that spelling is now receiving from schools of all grades, including colleges and universities, shows the importance that is attached to this subject.

"WORDS" is the outgrowth of an urgent need of a speller adapted to the requirements of commercial schools, where much has to be thoroughly accomplished in a brief period of time. These lists have been greatly enlarged in the revised edition by the addition of six chapters.

"WORDS" was prepared by two teachers of long experience in commercial school lines, the lists of words having been drawn largely from experience in correcting transcripts of students.

Thoughtful educators are agreed that sight has quite as much, if not more, to do with learning spelling than anything else, and that, therefore, the great advantage of this fact should be utilized in teaching. Another, and fully as important a consideration, is teaching the words in sentences. These two fundamental principles underlie the plan of "WORDS." They have been strengthened by a logical mechanical arrangement and the utilization of every psychological aid possible to secure the best results with the least effort.

"WORDS" possesses many distinctive advantages over other spelling texts. The following features embody important improvements which will, we are sure, appeal with special force to every discriminating and progressive teacher:

1. It presents the words in the first column as commonly seen in print, without diacritical marks or division in syllables, thus giving a correct first impression of the word.

2. The word is marked diacritically in the second column, in accordance with the method used in Webster's International Dictionary, and divided properly into syllables for the purpose of affording the student a thorough drill in pronunciation and syllabication.

3. A clear, concise definition of the word is given in the third column.

4. On the opposite page sentences are given illustrating the practical application of the words. These sentences, for the most part, are quotations from well-known authors, and were selected for a double purpose—to give a clear idea of the correct use of the words, and for their educational value. The sentences should be used as dictation exercises.

5. The arrangement of the book makes it possible to cover a comprehensive list of words, which have been selected because of their frequency and their liability to be misspelled.

6. Original work is given on each lesson. At the end of each lesson, words are given to be looked up in the dictionary. This plan, together with the application of the words in sentences, relieves the study of much of its dryness and maintains the interest of the student. In addition to this, it induces the student to consult the dictionary frequently, a habit, when formed, that will lead ultimately to a thorough knowledge of words.

7. The work is planned to cover a three, six or nine months' course, depending on the manner in which it is handled, thus making it peculiarly adapted to the work of business schools and high schools with commercial courses.

8. The arrangement by weeks is another feature that will appeal to the teacher. Four days of the week are devoted to regular exercises, and on the fifth, a review and general exercise is given.

9. The lessons on "Words Often Mispronounced," "Plurals and Possessives," "Words of Opposite Meaning," and the technical word lists added to this edition, will, it is believed, be greatly appreciated by the friends of "WORDS."

Webster's International Dictionary has been selected as authority for pronunciation, and, for the sake of uniformity, the words have been marked diacritically in accordance with the International's method.

Many of the sentences selected to illustrate the use of words have been taken from the Standard Dictionary; acknowledgment must also be made to "Synonyms Discriminated," by Charles John Smith, for valuable aid in making discriminations in the use of synonyms.

RULES FOR SPELLING

RULE I. Monosyllables, and words accented on the last syllable, ending in a single consonant preceded by a single vowel, double the final consonant before an affix beginning with a vowel. Examples: recur, recurrent; forget, forgetting; hot, hottest; beg, beggar; blot, blotting.

Exception. When the original accent is thrown back, the final consonant is not doubled. Refer', ref'erence; prefer', pref'erence.

Where Rule I does not apply, the final consonant is not doubled. Examples: offer, offering; appear, appearance.

RULE II. Final y, preceded by a consonant, is changed to i before an affix. Examples: busy, busily, business; pity, pitiful, pitied; spy, spied, spies.

Exceptions. 1. After t the y is changed into e before ous. Examples: plenteous; beauteous.

2. Before ing or ish the y is retained to avoid the doubling of i. Examples: pitying, spying, babyish.

3. In the possessive singular of nouns y is never changed. Examples: fly's, spy's.

4. Y is not changed in derivatives of sky, spry, shy, sly, wry, dry; except drier, driest, which conform to Rule II. Final y preceded by a vowel is not changed to i before an affix. Examples: buy, buyer; destroy, destroyer; pay, payment.

RULE III. Words ending in silent e drop e on taking an affix beginning with a vowel. Examples: sale, salable; sole, soling; love, loving; force, forcible.

Exceptions. 1. Words ending in ce or ge retain the e before able or ous, in order to keep the soft sound of the c or g. Examples: trace, traceable; courage, courageous.

2. Shoeing, mileage, toeing, hoeing; in singeing and dyeing the e is retained to distinguish the words from singing and dying.

3. Words ending in ie drop e and change i to y on adding ing. Examples: die, dying; lie, lying.

4. The e is retained on taking an affix beginning with a consonant. Examples: state, statement; ripe, ripeness; apprentice, apprenticeship.

Exceptions. Duly, truly, wholly, awful, argument, abridgment, acknowledgment, judgment, etc.

CHAPTER I

AND therefore, first of all, I tell you earnestly and authoritatively (I know I am right in this), that you must get into the habit of looking intensely at words, and assuring yourself of their meaning, syllable by syllable—nay, letter by letter. The study of books is called literature, and a man versed in it is called, by the consent of nations, a man of letters, instead of a man of books or of words. You might read all the books in the British Museum (if you could live long enough), and remain an utterly “illiterate,” uneducated person; but if you read ten pages of a good book, letter by letter, that is to say, with real accuracy, you are for evermore in some measure an educated person.—Ruskin.

CHAPTER II

SPELLING is largely a matter of association, and the eye, the ear, and the motor must be appealed to so as to produce the strongest combination of sensory elements. Care, then, in the right kind of oral preparation, with considerable oral test before writing, training pupils to build up words by using the small unities, into which words can be divided, is a method of teaching spelling productive of the best all-round results.—The Teacher.

CHAPTER VII

ONE of the things in life which we use the most and value the least is language. It is the distinction of our race, our highest prerogative, the instrument of our progress. It is the bond of brotherhood, too, and the body in which truth becomes incarnate. The thought-history of the race is written in the very structure of its speech; and a language or a dialect is as significant of great social forces now long spent as the strata of the earth's surface are concerning seismic energies.

THIRTY-FIRST LESSON—Discriminated Words

caution advise benefit	kā'-shūn ād-vīz' bēn'-ē-fit	To warn; to exhort; to take heed. To give advice to. Whatever promotes prosperity and personal happiness, or adds value to property.

Words to be applied in sentences: reply, answer, obvious, apparent

THE WORDS APPLIED

- 1 "You cautioned me against their charms."
- 2 Advise your friends to vote to change the measure.
- 3 Some benefits are conferred; others are reaped.
- 4 The educated man has a distinct advantage over the uneducated man.
- 5 Things are contrary which have very great unlikeness to each other, in character and attributes.
- 6 Adverse circumstances retard and make most difficult the progress of our purposes and schemes.
- 7 The contrary have wide differences; the opposite have nothing in common.
- 8 "The pain of death is most in apprehension."
- 9 Alarms were instantly sounded, and the employees, panic-stricken, rushed from the burning building.
- 10 "He that has but five shillings in the partnership has as good a right to it as he that has five hundred pounds has to his larger proportion."
- 11 The Merchants' League has accomplished much toward furthering the interests of our city.
- 12 The alliance between the powers saved China from dismemberment.
- 13 Why does the city permit its public grounds to be used for such questionable amusements?
- 14 How can you allow the child to play in such inclement weather?
- 15 Many persons find golf a most excellent recreation; many others find in cards a pleasant pastime.
- 16 The play was written expressly for the amusement of the king.
- 17 There is an affinity between husband and wife, in consequence of the marriage tie. It is well if there be also an affinity of sentiment and taste.
- 18 "Am I not consanguineous? Am I not of her blood?"
- 19 To remedy a disease is simply to remove it; to cure it is to remove the cause.
- 20 Animosity exists between individuals, hostility between nations.
- 21 To agree is to come to terms; to contract is to reduce terms to writing.

THIRTY-SECOND LESSON—Discriminated Words

colleague	kōl'-lēg	One united with another in tenure of office or discharge of official duty.
partner	pärt'-nēr	Partaker; associate; joint owner.
confines	kōn'-fins	Common boundary; border.
limits	līm'-its	That which bounds or circumscribes in a material manner.
duty	dū'-tŷ	That which one is bound to do, or perform.
obligation	ōb'-li-gā'-shŭn	Act of obligating or binding.
like (liking)	lik	To be pleased with; to enjoy.
love	lŭv	Affection; fondness; devotion.
fault	falt	Anything wanting or that impairs excellence.
blemish	blēm'-ish	To mark with deformity; to mar.
defect	dē-fēkt'	Want of something necessary for completeness.
glory	glō'-rŷ	Praise; reputation; fame.
honor	ōn'-ēr	Esteem due to worth; integrity.
pretty	prīt'-tŷ	Characterized by beauty of a delicate kind.
handsome	hān'-sŭm	Agreeable to the eye or to good taste in form and appearance.
splendid	splēn'-dīd	Brightly shining; magnificent; illustrious.
renowned	rē-nound'	The state of being widely known for one's great achievements of merit.
celebrated	sēl'-ē-brā'-tēd	Having celebrity; distinguished.
notorious	nō-tō'-rī-ŭs	Known to disadvantage; unfavorably conspicuous.

Words to be applied: personalty, personality, realty, reality

THE WORDS APPLIED

- 1 A colleague is one who is united with another in the tenure of office or the discharge of an official duty; a partner is commonly one who takes part in a social community of interest, whether grave or gay.
- 2 We speak of the confines of a country, of the limits of a city.
- 3 A duty can never be against reason; an obligation may be even absurd. Obligation is defined by the extent of the power which obligates; duty by the ability of the subject who performs.
- 4 Love involves some degree of admiration, though admiration is not in itself love; but we may like persons for amiable qualities, even when these qualities betray weakness.
- 5 A fault is a defect as referred to human agency; as, a fault of perspective in painting, while the fading of a color under natural influences is a blemish. Anything which deteriorates an article, or detracts from its completeness, whether as a work of art or a piece of furniture, is a defect.
- 6 Honor is never entirely separated from virtue; but glory may have no connection with it. Honor must ever regard the rights of others; glory may be earned at their expense. Glory attends great deeds; honor attends the discharge of duty. Therefore we may, if we please, despise glory, but it is ill to despise honor.
- 7 A pretty cottage; a handsome house; a splendid mansion.
- 8 Milton speaks of "some renowned metropolis with glistening spires."
- 9 Kipling is a celebrated author.
- 10 He was notorious for his bad actions.
- 11 We are choked by food; suffocated by foul air; smothered by being forcibly excluded from the air.
- 12 We are surprised at what was unexpected. We are astonished, at what was above our comprehension. The singular surprises, the marvelous astonishes. Cleverness surprises, genius astonishes.

THIRTY-THIRD LESSON—Discriminated Words

differ	dif'-fēr	Differ is employed of personal matters of minor consequence.
dispute	dīs-pūt'	Dispute is a difference more or less strong kept within the bounds of argument.
quarrel obstacle	kwōr'-rēl ōb'-sta-k'l	An angry dispute; brawl; affray. The obstacle is something before you, which stops your progress.
impediment	Im-pēd'-i-ment	The impediment is here and there, around and about you, to detain you in your movements.
oblige	ō-blij'	To constrain by moral inducement; to place under an obligation or necessity.
bound	bound	Morally or legally constrained or compelled.

Words to be applied in sentences: extent, large, maintain, discernment unite	ū-nīt'	To unite is to join things in such fashion that they may be one .

remunerate	rĕ-mū'-nĕr-āt	Remuneration is commonly taken in the sense of compensation for personal services done.
compensate	kōm'-pĕn-sāt	To compensate is to furnish an equivalent for anything lost or parted with by another.

THE WORDS APPLIED

- 1 We differ about a matter; we dispute about it after differing; we quarrel after the dispute.
- 2 An impediment is vexatious. An obstacle may even provoke to courage and additional effort.
- 3 We are obliged by necessity. We are bound by obligation.
- 4 The prudent man prepares for what is coming; the discreet man judges of present affairs.
- 5 The faded may be revived. The withered cannot revive.
- 6 We choose one from a number; we prefer one to another.
- 7 That which is impracticable is theoretically possible, but cannot be done under existing conditions. That which is impossible cannot be done at all.
- 8 Libel is slander written or published; defamation is slander spoken.
- 9 We are detained by waiting for something; we are hindered by the badness of the roads.
- 10 I apprehend a thing when it is brought into direct relation to my own mind; I comprehend a thing when I know all about it.
- 11 When two streams join they become united into one. Men unite in esteem; they may join in battle.
- 12 We remunerate for services received; we compensate for injury or loss.

THIRTY-FOURTH LESSON—Discriminated Words

return	rê-tûrn'	To cause to take again a former position; to repay in kind.
restore	rê-stôr'	To cause to assume a former condition; to repair.
surrender	sûr-rên'-dêr	To yield possession of to another upon compulsion or demand.
ability	â-bil'-i-tÿ	Power of applying knowledge to practical purposes.
capacity	kâ-pâs'-i-tÿ	Power of receiving knowledge.
discover	dîs-kûv'-êr	To find out; disclose; reveal; detect.
invent	in-vênt'	To contrive; to devise; contrivance of that which did not exist before.
specimen	spês'-i-men	A specimen is a representative of the class of thing to which it belongs.
sample	sâm'-p'l	A sample is a part of the thing itself.
adjoining	âd-join'-ing	In contact with.
adjacent	âd-jâ'-sent	Near.
liable	li'-â-b'l	Do not say "It is liable to rain," for likely	lik'-lÿ	"It is likely to rain."
obsolete	ôb'-sô-lêt	Gone out of use.
extinct	êks-tîŋkt'	Not now existing.
temperance	têm'-pêr-ans	Moderation.
abstinence	âb'-stî-nens	Doing entirely without.
benevolence	bê-nêv'-ô-lens	The desire to do good.
beneficence	bê-nêf'-i-sens	Active goodness.
tacit	tâs'-it	Implied, but not expressed in words.
silent	sî'-lent	Tacit is employed of things abstract. Silent characterizes either persons or things.
transpire	trân-spîr'	Does not mean to happen, but to happen	hâp'-p'n	escape from secrecy, to leak out.
character	kâr'-âk-têr	What one really is.
reputation	rêp'-û-tâ'-shûn	What others think him to be.

Words to be applied in sentences: invoke, authentic, abolish, profession

THE WORDS APPLIED

- 1 We return what was borrowed or lent; we restore what was taken or given; we surrender what is ours by right.
- 2 His capacity for acquiring knowledge was phenomenal, but he was singularly lacking in ability to apply it.
- 3 Newton discovered the law of gravitation; Edison invented a method of applying that law to the crushing of iron ore.
- 4 Specimen pages of the book have been carefully examined, and we should now like to see samples of the proposed binding.
- 5 The lots are adjoining, but the houses on them are only adjacent.
- 6 We are liable for our debts; we are likely to make friends if we are truthful, honest, ambitious, and thoughtful.
- 7 Obsolete is applied chiefly to terms, documents, customs, and observances, and is never used of persons. Volcanoes, races of people, and animals may become extinct.
- 8 Some are compelled to take refuge in abstinence, feeling their inability to be temperate.
- 9 Self-denial does not belong to beneficence, because the beneficent is above the condition of suffering from a diminution of what he possesses when he bestows upon others. The benevolent man may want the means of being liberal in matters of money or gifts, but he will naturally give when he can and according to his means, from a disposition to wish well to others.
- 10 Friendship, when strict, comprehends a tacit agreement and covenant between those who enter into it, to look upon the concerns of each other in a great measure as their own. "How silent is this town!"
- 11 The verb transpire formerly conveyed very expressively its correct meaning, namely, to become known through unnoticed channels—to exhale, as it were, into publicity through invisible pores, like a vapor or gas disengaging itself. A practice has commenced of employing this word as a mere synonym of happen. Such use of the word is condemned by the best writers.
- 12 Character is borne, reputation acquired, credit given. Reputation is more than ordinary; character and credit belong to ordinary deeds, conduct, and persons.

THIRTY-FIFTH LESSON—Review and General Exercise

obligation	relapse	applaud	impracticable
honor	horticulture	miracle	remuneration
splendid	mortgage	monotonous	inconvenience

beneficence	precious	coincide	century

CHAPTER VIII

“THERE is a fascination in the mere sound of articulated breath; of consonants that resist with the firmness of a maid of honor, or half or wholly yield to the wooing lips; of vowels that flow and murmur, each after its kind; the peremptory b and p, the brittle k, the vibrating r, the insinuating s, the feathery f, the velvety v, the bell-voiced m, the tranquil broad a, the penetrating e, the cooing u, the emotional o, and the beautiful combinations of alternate rock and stream, as it were, that they give to the rippling flow of speech—there is a fascination in the skillful handling of these, which the great poets and even prose-writers have not disdained to acknowledge and use to recommend their thought.”—Holmes.

THIRTY-SIXTH LESSON—Possessive Forms

RULE: The possessive singular of nouns is formed by adding an apostrophe and an s to the nominative.

Write the possessive singular of the following:

child	Alice	history	box
lass	woman	letter	watch
guide	James	hero	postman
night	Frances	tourist	girl
lady	minister	fortune	man
year	month	day	season

RULE: The possessive of plural nouns is formed by adding an apostrophe to the nominative plural if it ends in s; if the nominative plural does not end in s, add an apostrophe and an s. In proper names ending in s, the authorities favor adding the apostrophe and s. For example: James's aunt.

Write the possessive plural of the following:

attorney	house	man	colony
witness	robber	boy	cavern
student	lady	woman	dwarf
mechanic	mouse	chief	pupil
stationer	chimney	girl	railway
mother	child	lawyer	season
month	day	year	manufacturer

THE WORDS APPLIED—Dictation Exercise

The members of the Mothers' Club were entertained by the president. Stationers' supplies were manufactured there. The department store advertised men's, women's, boys' and girls' clothing, at prices lower than they had been before in many years. The students met at the mechanics' pavilion. He found the lady's handbag containing a pair of ladies' gloves. Frances's interpretation of the minister's poem was very clever. The hero's grave was pointed out to the party of tourists. The colonies' defection brought on the war. A year's work in a girls' school will be the best for her. James's watch was used as a compass by the guides. Alice's return is looked for within ten days' time. The witnesses' actions on the witness stand should be carefully observed by the jury. A month's time was needed to deliver the packages. A three days' trip was made to New York by Mr. Morris's aunt.

THIRTY-SEVENTH LESSON—How Plurals are Formed

RULE: The plurals of nouns ending in y preceded by a consonant are formed by changing y into i and adding es to the singular.

Form the plurals of the following :

variety	authority	necessity	courtesy
melody	auxiliary	society	quantity
discovery	prodigy	luxury	security
ecstasy	destiny	cruelty	inaccuracy
prophecy	company	mystery	incapacity
monopoly	treasury	tragedy	story

RULE: The plurals of nouns ending in y preceded by a vowel are formed by adding s to the singular.

Form the plurals of the following :

pulley	Thursday	essay	attorney
affray	money	donkey	parley
covey	assay	galley	jockey
holiday	alloy	relay	pathway
chimney	envoy	abbey	roundelay
stairway	decoy	journey	survey

THE WORDS APPLIED—Dictation Exercise

Many things that were formerly counted as luxuries are now considered among the necessities of life. She went into ecstasies over the beauty of the melodies. The varieties in the monopolies, and their frequent financial cruelties, were among the discoveries of the authorities. The inaccuracies in the statements of these societies, as to the amounts in their treasuries, are astonishing. The mysterics and tragedies of life form the themes of many brilliant essays. These companies and their auxiliaries were subjected to the close scrutiny of the examiners. Men are masters of their destinies. Many of the prodigies of history were short-lived. The court reprimanded the attorneys for their long parleys. Surveys were made of the grounds around the abbeys. In their journeys the envoys sometimes rode donkeys. His essays on the assays of moneys and their alloys were read with interest. Decoys were used to lure the convoys. The jockeys on holidays engage in many affrays.

THIRTY-EIGHTH LESSON—Forming Plurals

RULE: The plural of most nouns ending in o is formed by adding s to the singular:

altos	quartos	palmettos	contraltos
studios	folios	cameos	embryos
pianos	sopranos	bassos	tobaccos
solos	mementos	ratios	porticos
provisos	tyros	stiletto	frescos
intaglios	halos	ditto	imbroglios

RULE: The plural of some nouns ending in o is formed by adding es to the singular:

potatoes	torpedoes	manifestoes	grottoes
vetoos	tornadoes	mosquitoes	dadoes
embargoos	buffaloos	desperadoes	mangoes
cargoes	calicoes	mottoes	volcanoes negroes	echoes	tomatoes	innuendoes
aloos	bilboos	porticoes	stuccoes

THE WORDS APPLIED—Dictation Exercise

The pianos in the studios were often used to accompany the sopranos. The cargoes were made up of potatoes, calicoes, tobaccos, tomatoes, and mangoes, and were unloaded by negroes. Cameos are the exact opposites of intaglios. The solos of the bassos were repeated in the echoes. Desperadoes, armed with *stiletto*s, were engaged in noisy imbroglios. Splendid frescos adorned the dadoes on the porticos. Many innuendoes were obscured in the provisos of the manifestoes. Both tornadoes and volcanoes strike terror to the hearts of the inhabitants of many countries. Embargoes were placed on torpedoes. Mementos and mottoes were included in the collection. Buffaloes in America are very scarce. The relays were run on Thursdays. Both the chimneys and the stairways have been completed. The securities were produced in quantities.

Form plurals: medley, railway, parody, mercy.

THIRTY-NINTH LESSON—Forming Plurals

RULE: The plural of most nouns ending in f or fe is formed by adding s to the singular:

puffs	gulfs	waifs	clefs sheriffs	beliefs	cliffs	staffs
giraffes	briefs	skiffs	cuffs
strifes	proofs	bluffs	hoofs
plaintiffs	roofs	muffs	chefs
dwarfs	stuffs	bailiffs	handkerchiefs

Some nouns ending in f or fe, however, form their plural by changing f or fe into v and adding es to the singular:

Sing.	Plur.	Sing.	Plur.
wife	wives	shelf	shelves
thief	thieves	wolf	wolves
knife	knives	life	lives
half	halves	wharf	wharves
beef	beeves	calf	calves
elf	elves	leaf	leaves
loaf	loaves	sheaf	sheaves

THE WORDS APPLIED—Dictation Exercise

Puffs of wind from the cliffs made the flight of the aeroplanes perilous. The wives of the thieves were left on the wharves; the grief of the thieves was real. Glue was made from the hoofs of the calves and the beeves. Dye stuffs formed the larger part of the cargo, which consisted also of muffs, cuffs, and knives. Proofs of the strifes could not be produced. The competition between the chefs resulted in some wonderful dishes. Briefs were prepared for both plaintiffs and defendants. The Gulf of Mexico is the largest of the gulfs. The various staffs of the army were called into consultation. Proofs of collusion between the sheriffs was found. The queer beliefs of the waifs were caused by the severity of their lives.

Form plurals: lady, comedy, agency, legacy.

FORTIETH LESSON—Review and General Exercise

abbreviate	indelible	description	imperative
initial	blamable	equally	women's

CHAPTER IX

WORDS OF OPPOSITE MEANING

SYNONYMS and antonyms are especially adapted to oral recitation. The teacher may stimulate competition by asking for original oral sentences giving both the word under discussion, and its opposite. This will necessarily call for advance preparation by the student, which will be a valuable aid in inducing frequent consultation of the dictionary. One day may be devoted to spelling, pronunciation and definitions of the words, and another to sentence work. The teacher will have wide opportunity for talks on the discrimination in the use of words while on this section.

“Words Often Mispronounced” are introduced to stimulate interest in pronunciation, and to supplement the dictionary work already given. The student must consult the dictionary to get the correct pronunciation, and should be required to make up a list of the words in the day’s lesson, mark them diacritically, and show the accent. The recitation will necessarily be given orally.

CHAPTER X

KEEP your faith in all beautiful things; in the sun when it is hidden; in the spring when it is gone. . . . And then you will find that Duty and Service and Sacrifice—all the old ogres and bugbears of life—have joys imprisoned in their deepest dungeons! And it is for you to set them free—the immortal joys that no one—no living soul, or fate, or circumstance—can rob you of, once you have released them.—Roy Rolfe Gilson.

CHAPTER XI

SHOW US

By HERBERT KAUFMAN

YOU say that you deserve success;
Pitch in, and start to show us.
We think that you deserve far less,
And ought to be below us.
It's up to you and what you do;
Mere empty words won't change our view.

Come, prove our viewpoint isn't true!
Results are all that we will count;
If you can climb, begin and mount!
Present your case—we're on the jury;
But all of us are from Missouri.

CHAPTER XII

“HALF the giant’s strength is in the conviction that he is a giant. The strength of a muscle is enhanced a hundred fold by the will power. The same muscle, when removed from the giant’s arm, when divorced from the force of the mighty will, can sustain but a fraction of the weight it did a moment before it was disconnected.”

CHAPTER XIII

EVERYTHING that is great in life is the product of slow growth; the newer, and greater, and higher, and nobler the work, the slower is its growth, the surer is its lasting success. Mushrooms attain their full power in a night; oaks require decades. A fad lives its life in a few weeks; a philosophy lives through generations and centuries.

CHAPTER XIV

WHEN I consider what some books have done for the world, and what they are doing, how they keep up our hope, awaken new courage and faith, soothe pain, give an ideal life to those whose hours are cold and hard, bind together distant ages and foreign lands, create new worlds of beauty, bring down Truth from heaven; I give eternal blessings for this gift, and thank God for books.

Mental weariness produced by satiety or lack of interest.
---	---	---

When the Hyphen is Used

1. Compound adjectives generally take the hyphen: a 75-horse power engine, asked-for opinion, state-bank notes. In applying this rule care must be taken not to confuse the qualifying word with the subject word. Observe the following forms: young school-teacher, common-school teacher, high-school teacher.

2. A present or past participle with a noun or an adjective may take the hyphen in such expressions as: well-dealing countrymen, soul-killing witches, sap-consuming winter.

3. Adverbs ending in "ly" are not usually compounded with adjectives which they qualify; as, "nicely kept lawn." But words like "above," "ill," "well," "so," etc., are compounded in such expressions as "the well-known writer," "the so-called tariff reform," "the last-named article," etc.

4. In fractional numbers, spelled out, connect by a hyphen the numerator and the denominator, unless either already contains a hyphen: three-fourths, one twenty-first, one one-hundred-and-twentieth, one-quarter.

5. When used adjectively, the expressions "first-class," "second-class," etc., are to be hyphenated; otherwise they should be printed as two words: a first-class passage, a ship of the first class.

6. Omit the hyphen in such Latin forms as "an ex officio member," "per diem employees," etc.

7. Generally hyphen two or more words combined into one adjective preceding a noun: rock-bottom prices, gilt-edge stocks, stay-at-home voter.

8. Ordinarily words denoting occupation should be hyphenated: book-dealer.

9. Compounds of "store" should be hyphenated when the prefix contains one syllable; otherwise not: drug-store, but grocery store.

10. Compounds of "fellow" are always hyphenated: fellow-men, play-fellow.

11. Compounds of "life" and "world" require a hyphen: life-history, world-power; but lifetime.

12. Compounds of "master" should be hyphenated: master-builder (exception: masterpiece).

13. "Half," "quarter," etc., combined with a noun should be followed by a hyphen: half-truth, half-tone, quarter-deck.

14. Compounds of "self" are hyphenated: self-evident.

15. "Vice," "ex," "elect," "general," and "lieutenant" constituting parts of titles should be connected with the chief noun by a hyphen: Ex-President Roosevelt.

16. Compounds of "by" should be hyphenated: by-product, by-laws.

17. The prefixes "co-," "pre-," and "re-," when followed by the same vowel as that in which they terminate, take a hyphen, but as a rule they do not when followed by a different vowel or a consonant: co-operation, pre-empted, re-enter; but, reindex, reinstate, coadjutor, preordained.

18. "Non" ordinarily calls for a hyphen except in the commonest words: non-contagious; but nonsense.

19. "Extra," "infra" and "supra" as a rule call for a hyphen; extra-hazardous; infra-auxiliary; supra-angular.

20. Compounds of "father," "mother," "brother," "sister," "daughter," and "parent" with "foster" should be hyphenated.

21. Compounds of the following when prefixed are ordinarily hyphenated:

able-	false-	old-	safe-
clean-	full-	on-	set-
cool-	great-	open-	sight-
deep-	half-	photo-	simple-
diamond-	ill-	plain-	sound-
dim-	large-	poor-	subject-
double-	light-	public-	truth-
evil-	make-	re- (again)	un- (when followed faint-	money-	right-	by a capital)
fair-	narrow-

22. The exceptions to the foregoing are:

Doubletree; adjectives and adverbs of "full" take the hyphen; makeshift; makeweight; onrush; onset; onto; openwork; plainsman, poorhouse.

23. Compounds of "photo" are hyphenated when followed by a word beginning with "e"; the others one word.

24. In the sense of again the compounds of "re" are hyphenated, as in re-ally, re-collect, re-cover, etc.

25. Compounds of "un" are hyphenated when they begin with a capital: un-American.

When the Hyphen is Not Used

1. Compounds of "book," "house," "mill," "room," "shop" and "work" when the prefix noun contains only one syllable: handbook, boathouse, handmill, classroom, tinshop.

2. "Semi," "demi," "bi," "tri," etc., do not ordinarily require a hyphen: semiannual, biweekly.

3. Combinations with "fold" do not contain a hyphen if the number contains only one syllable; if it contains more, the words are separated: twofold, a hundred fold.

4. Adjectives formed by the suffixion of "like" to a noun are usually printed as one word if the noun contains only one syllable (except when ending in "l"); if it contains more (or is a proper noun) they should be hyphenated: childlike, homelike; but, business-like, girl-like, Christ-like.

5. Omit the hyphen from "viewpoint," "standpoint."

6. "Over" and "under" prefixed to a word should not be followed by a hyphen, except in rare cases: overbold, underfed.

7. The prefixes "ante," "anti," "inter," "intra," "post," "sub" and "super" do not ordinarily require a hyphen.

8. Compounds of the following, when prefixed, are ordinarily one compact word:

auto	forth	play	under
back	in	post	up
blue	land	rough	war
book	law	school	way
check	night	semi	when
church	north	ship	whence counter	off	star	where down	other	step	which
draw	out	thorough	white
ever	over	trans	who
fire	para	ultra	work

9. The exceptions to the foregoing are:

Blue-eyed; blue-veined; book-learned; in-going; law-abiding; post-office; post-road; school-ship; school-teacher; school-teaching; star-chamber; step-up; step-down; under-age; under-grown; up-to-date; up-line; war-beaten.

10. Adjectives of "night" and "white" take a hyphen; "trans" when followed by a capital is hyphenated.

SEVENTIETH LESSON

The following abbreviations are advised by the Postoffice Department: "Names of States should be written in full (or their abbreviations very distinctly) in order to prevent errors which arise from the similarity of such abbreviations as Cal., Colo., Ia., Pa., Va., Vt., Me., Mo., Nebr., Nev., N. H., N. M., N. Y., N. J., N. C., D. C., Miss., Penn., Tenn., etc., when hastily or carelessly written. This is especially necessary in addressing mail matter to places of which the names are borne by several post-offices in different states."

Ala.	Alabama
Ariz.	Arizona
Ark.	Arkansas
Cal.	California
Colo.	Colorado
Conn.	Connecticut
Del.	Delaware
D. C.	District of Columbia
Fla.	Florida
Ga.	Georgia

Vt.	Vermont
Va.	Virginia
Wash.	Washington
W. Va.	West Virginia
Wis.	Wisconsin
Wyo.	Wyoming

Alaska, Guam, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Ohio, Samoa, and Utah are not abbreviated.

CHAPTER XV

AH, to build, to build!
That is the noblest art of all the arts.
Painting and sculpture are but images,
Are merely shadows cast by outward things
On stone or canvas, having in themselves
No separate existence. Architecture,
Existing in itself, and not in seeming
A something it is not, surpasses them
As substance shadow.

—Longfellow.

CHAPTER XVII

THE question for each man to settle is not what he would do if he had the means, time, influence and educational advantages; the question is what he will do with the things he has. The moment a young man ceases to dream or to bemoan his lack of opportunities and resolutely looks his conditions in the face, and resolves to change them, he lays the corner-stone of a solid and honorable success.—Hamilton Wright Mabie.

CHAPTER XVIII

LABOR is life! The still water faileth;
Idleness ever despaireth, bewalleth;
Keep the watch wound, for the dark rust assaileth;
Flowers droop and die in the stillness of noon.
Labor is glory! The flying cloud lightens;
Only the waving wing changes and brightens;
Idle hearts only the dark future frightens;
Play the sweet keys wouldst thou keep them in tune.

SUPPLEMENTARY EXERCISE ON WORDS DIFFICULT TO PRONOUNCE

This short story, from the Detroit Free Press, contains most of the common words ordinarily mispronounced by even educated people. It affords a valuable drill in both spelling and pronunciation. It is suggested that a list of the words be prepared by the student, and the correct pronunciation, obtained from the dictionary. An oral test may then be given on pronunciation, followed by a written test in spelling.

GEOFFREY

Geoffrey, surnamed Winthrop, sat in the depot at Chicago, waiting for his train and reading the Tribune, when a squadron of street Arabs (incomparable for squalor) thronged from a neighboring alley, uttering hideous cries, accompanied by inimitable gestures of heinous exultation, as they tortured a humble black and tan dog.

"You little blackguards!" cried Winthrop, stepping outside and confronting them, adding the inquiry, "Whose dog is that?"

"That audacious Caucasian has the bravado to interfere with our clique," tauntingly shrieked the indisputable little ruffian, exhibiting combativeness.

"What will you take for him?" asked the lenient Geoffrey, ignoring the venial tirade.

"Twenty-seven cents," piquantly answered the ribald urchin, grabbing the crouching dog by the nape.

"You can buy licorice and share with the indecorous coadjutors of your condemnable cruelty," said Winthrop, paying the price and taking the dog from the child. Then, catching up his valise and umbrella, he hastened to his train. Winthrop satisfied himself that his sleek protégé was not wounded, and then cleaned the cement from the pretty collar and read these words:

"Leicester. Licensed, No. 1880."

Hearing the pronunciation of his name, the docile canine expressed gratitude and pleasure, and then sank exhausted at his new patron's feet and slept.

Among the passengers was a magazine contributor, writing vagaries of Indian literature, also two physicians, a somber, irrevocable, irrefragable allopathist, and a genial homeopathist, who made a specialty of bronchitis. Two peremptory attorneys from the legislature of Iowa were discussing the politics of the epoch and the details of national finance, while a wan, dolorous person wearing concave glasses alternately ate trochees and almonds for a sedative, and sought condolence in a high, lamentable treble from a lethargic and somewhat deaf and enervated comrade not yet acclimated. Near three exemplary brethren (probably sinecurists) sat a group of humorous youths, and a jocose sailor (lately from Asia) in a blouse waist and tarpaulin hat, was amusing his patriotic juvenile listeners by relating a series of the most extraordinary legends extant, suggested by the contents of the knapsack, which he was calmly and leisurely arranging in a pyramidal form on a three-legged stool. Above swung figured placards with museum and lyceum advertisements, too verbose to be misconstrued.

A mature matron of medium height and her comely daughter soon entered the car and took seats in front of Winthrop (who recalled having seen them one Tuesday in February in the parquet of a theater). The young lady had recently made her début into society at a musical soirée at her aunt's. She had an exquisite bouquet of flowers that exhaled sweet perfume. She said to her parent: "Mamma, shall we ever find my lost Leicester?"

Geoffrey immediately addressed her, saying as he presented his card:

"Pardon my apparent intrusiveness; but prithee, have you lost a pet dog?"

The explanation that he had been stolen was scarcely necessary, for Leicester, just awakening, vehemently expressed his inexplicable joy by buoyantly vibrating between the two like the sounding lever used in telegraphy (for to neither of them would he show partiality), till, succumbing to ennui, he purported to take a recess, and sat on his haunches, complaisantly contemplating his friends. It was truly an interesting picture.

They reached their destination ere the sun was beneath the horizon. Often during the summer Winthrop gallantly rowed from the quay with the naive and blithe Beatrice in her jaunty yachting suit, but no coquetry shone from the depths of her azure eyes. Little Less, their jocund confidant and courier (who was as sagacious as a spaniel), always attended them on these occasions, and whene'er they rambled through the woodland paths. While the band played strains from Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Bach, and others, they promenaded the long corridors of the hotel. And one evening, as Beatrice lighted the gas by the étagère in her charming boudoir in their suite of rooms, there glistened brilliantly a valuable solitaire diamond on her finger.

Let us look into the future for the sequel to perfect this romance, and around a cheerful hearth we see again Geoffrey and Beatrice, who are paying due homage to their tiny friend Leicester.
